

Job Description for Internship

Value Partners Management Consulting is a multinational firm headquartered in Italy that works out of 10 offices worldwide. We assist the top management of multinationals and entrepreneurial businesses to identify and pursue value enhancement initiatives.

As a project intern, you will participate in project activities and support project teams by developing quantitative analysis and finding information from internal and external sources.

You will gain early exposure to business issues through participation in client meetings and opportunities to interact and work closely with client personnel. You are expected to be highly independent and take on responsibilities very early on. We do expect you to add personal value to all the tasks assigned to you. You'll never be alone, though: you will be coached on the job by senior colleagues and you'll receive training in problem structuring, communication skills and database analysis.
