

PolarisTech Consulting Limited

We are a group of technology enthusiasts specializing in research and development of the next generation video display and processing solutions. We dedicate our resources on proprietary technology development while taking on commissioned works for some biggest names in the video display industry.

Assistant R&D Engineer

- Degree in Physics / Electrical Engineering / Mechanical Engineering or related disciplines
- 2 years' working experience in the electronics industry. Knowledge in semiconductors is an advantage
- Experience in product development of electronic products from design concept to mass production
- Knowledge in the video display or related product will be an asset
- Liaises & coordinates with China Factory
- Excellent interpersonal and communication skills
- Pro-active, independent and detail-oriented
- Fluent in written and spoken English and Mandarin
- Willing to travel to PRC when required

We provide 5-day work week and offer attractive remuneration package and excellent career prospect to the right candidate.

Interested parties please send a full resume with expected salary to jmhr@joinmerit.com.